lyrics & arrangement by Travis Ham (©2021) | Tune by Charles Austin Miles (Public Domain)

G

Man worked in the Garden alone

C

G

Till You brought a beautiful helper

Am

Em

While the serpent's lie filled her heart and mind

Am Am7 D

The man refused to help her

Em

Bm

And we ran from You, and we hid from You

C

G D/F#

Through our sin, rejected Your claim

Bm B7

Em D C

As the God of all. Lord, we caused the fall

G D C G/B Am C G/B D

We covered our wayward shame

Em

Cmaj7

You called, and the sound of Your voice

G

G D/F#

Caused us fear, for we knew our sentence

But we blamed Your grace, we spit in Your face

We hid behind our pretense

But You promised us, yes, You promised us
That the Seed of woman would come
Crush the serpent's head, perish in our stead
To save us and bring us home

So out from the garden we went
But You gave a far better garment
For a sacrifice will alone suffice
To deal with our debarment

G

D

For You promised us, yes, You promised us
And the Seed of woman has come,
Perished in our stead, rose up from the dead
To save us and bring us home
